HONGGONG, JULY 28RD, 1894.

In the event of war breaking out between China and Japan: some delicate questions would-arise us to the extent to which the respective countries should be allowed to exercise the orginary rights of belligerents. A few days ago it was believed that a peaceable solution of the dispute over Kored was practically assured, but later news received is more disquieting and the approhersion of hostilities has been revived. The probabilities are that should they come to blows both countries will be desirous to avoid giving cause of offence to other Powers by vexations. proceedings in respect of neutral trade. It would be unwise to count on this, however. If one of the belligarents succeeded in wiping out the fleet of the other its own vessels would then be available for the purposes of blockade should the other party still refuse to submit to terms. At the commencement of the war both fleets would be too busily engaged in watching each other to be able ports, but after a time, when one had possibly secured a distinct advantage, a different state of things would arise. In such case would Japan be allowed to establish a blockade of, sav, Shanghai, or conversely China to establish a blockade of Yokohama According to the laws of war the right to do so would be unquestionable, but it is not to be supposed that the Treaty Powers would stand aside and look quietly on while trade was being unnecessarily and wantonly neutral vessels. There is a Norfolk ghost, not Dr. Jegsopp's but a new one. It hunnts at farmhause in the neighbourhood of Norwich. It has frightened away servents; causes the owner of the homesten is Julyto patcol his rooms at night with a revolver, and at has attricted the attention of Mr. F. W. H Myora. Moreover it has been investigated by the Eastern Daily Poess, and has converted the reporter. He finds that it appears now as a man now as a woman, or rather tha the dread mysterious figure has a certain bi sexual character, and there is the usual accounpanying orchestra of banging doors, falling turniture, and unexplained noises. Perhaps the most carious part of the story is that a great many children have been frightened by it, and that they have rou out of thoir rooms at night complaining of a mysterious visitant. All this may be ground for speculation, but it does no take us very far. No ghost stories are worth much until we are in possession of all evidence until each witues has been examined and oross examined with som thing at all events of the pitiless minuteness of a court of law. We are afraid the Norfolk ghost has not yet gone through these processes.

IMPERIAL QUARTO. MNGLISH AND CHINES DICTIONARY. WITH THE PUSTI AND MANDARIX. PRONUNCIATION

An Angle Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press O Roe, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical burne this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of latey ears been compelled to coin to express the numerons objects in muchinery, photography, telagraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance f foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extense. Esch and every word is fully illustrated and explained; forming exercises. for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Panti pronunciations are given the accents being oursfully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography lightays the sneeds of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy, of mass, nohiering a olearness not previously attained; and disponsing with those vast manging and vacant spaces which have heretofore chargeterized Chinese publications. To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration:-Chalmers Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Madharst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work couts us more than 50,000 English words, and now is of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, da pite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published; the student of this difficult language absolutely re-cations and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto pub-For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains ambjects fully with which yory few indeed of them are parfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested n China it cannot but be invaluable occasion-It comprises upwards of two thousand large 4 Vols. IMPERIAL QUARTO, Price, $20. A Large REDUCTION in PRICE is made to Purchasers of SIX or more Copies. LONDON
